Strongly disagreeStrongly agreeThank you very much for your kind feedback!Glad to know it meets your expectations. This feedback motivates us to offer more and be committed to providing high quality resources. Thank you very much!This is designed to be a pre-reading WebQuest for students prior to reading "The Medicine Bag", which is written by Virginia Driving Hawk Sneve--a text that also appears in the 8th Grade MyPerspectives text. The intention here is to provide some independent learning, which includes surveying a website and watching linked videos, to create a somewhat broad understanding of Native tribes, the Lakota Sioux, and the importance of learning from Elders--all part of the context in the short story.Page 23 8th. grade Symbolism figurative meaning + info A symbol is anything that stands for or represents something else. Symbolism is the use of symbols. * Symbols are common in everyday life as well as in literature. For example: A dove with an olive branch in its beak is a symbol of peace. * In literature, symbolism can highlight certain ideas the author wishes to emphasize. *Symbolism can also add levels of meaning to a text. Most Native American cultures show deep respect for nature, and the natural world is considered to have profound spiritual qualities. Symbols of nature play an important role in Native Amerian traditions, especially religious ones. In "The medicine bag", the medicine bag is an important symbol. Think about other symbols connected with Grandpa in the story. What is a symbol? + info Symbols and Symbolism video answer questions 1, 2 & 3Then fill in the chart work on page 23 Page 25 8th. grade passive voice Verbs in Active and + Info Active and passive voice + info It's important to learn and use active and passive voice of verbs in your writing. The voice of a verb shows whether the subject of the verb is performing the action or receiving it. A verb is in the active voice when its subject performs the action. A verb is in the passive voice when its subject receives the action. Active and passive voice A passive verb is a verb phrase made from a form of be with the past participle of an action verb, as shown in the chart. Active voice: We filled the bucket. Alison is winning the race. Passive voice: The bucket was filled. (Filled is the past participle of fill) The race is being won by Alison. (Won is the past participle of win) + info Generally, the active voice is considered a better choice for writers. The active voice communicates ideas in a more engaging, concise way. It also puts the emphasis on the person performing the action. Passive voice should be used when the performer of the action is unknown or when it is desirable to stress the action instead of its performer. In general, avoid passive voice to keep your writing from sounding vague. vs + info + info Enhances the object (who receives the action) Structure: Who receives the action + to be (tense) + Verb in past participle + by + who does de action (object pronoun) The video is recorded by Marcela. The video is recorded by her. The video was recorded by Marcela. The video will be recorded by Marcela. Passive voice It focuses in the subject (who does the action) Structure: Who does the action + action (tense) + Who gets the action. Marcela records the video. She records the video. Marcela recorded the video. Marcela will record the video. Active voice The dinner has been prepared by my mother. My mother has prepared dinner. The house is being painted by them. They are painting the house. Michael Jackson sings Billy Jean. Billy Jean is sung by Michael Jackson. vs + info + info Enhances the object (who receives the action) Structure: Who receives the action + to be (tense) + Verb in past participle + by + who does de action (object pronoun).
