Best decoration farm iceborne

Last Updated: 2021/6/21 12:13 Check out this Monster Hunter World: Iceborne early Master Rank armor build guide. Includes recommended builds, equipment, decorations, and skills!Check Out All Weapon Types Here!Recommended Builds - OverviewCan Easily be Created at the Start of IceborneThe builds below are made from armor parts that can easily be farmed upon starting the Monster Hunter World: Iceborne DLC. The monsters themselves do not pose as much danger so the risk factor is low as well.Jewels Can be Farmed in High RankYou don't need to be in Master Rank to farm for Jewels. It is recommended for players to farm for decorations before heading over to the Iceborne DLC & Master Rank. Relatively, most of the jewels and skills used here are a must for any DPS players. Though, with high focus on DPS, this build is lacking on defense and survivability.Early Master Rank Survival BuildsSurvival Focused BuildArmorDecorationsJagras Helm α +Recovery Jewel 1Defense Jewel 1Bone Mail α +Protection Jewel 1Jagras Vambraces α +Recovery Jewel 1Beo Coil β +Evasion Jewel 2Beo Greaves β +(Any Elemental Resistance Jewel)Blight Resistance Charm 3-SkillsEarplugs 2Attack Boost 3Health Boost 3Critical Eye 2Evade Extender 3Speed Eating 2Recovery Up 2Critical Boost 1Evade Window 2Razor Sharp/Spare ShotDefense Boost 1Blight Resistance 3Elemental Resistance 1-Great for Recovering During FightsWith survivability in mind, this build raises the amount of recovery hunters can have during battle. Slot in a resistance jewel specifically for the monster you are hunting to lessen your elemental damage. The new level 4 decorations in Monster Hunter World: Iceborne (MHW:IB) are broken up into four rarities: Rarity 9 (R9), Rarity 10 (R10), Rarity 11 (R11) and Rarity 12 (R12). Feystones follow a similar pattern in that there are Ancient Feystones (R9), Carved Feystones (R10) and Sealed Feystones (R11). The higher the rarity of Feystone the better the odds of a higher rarity decoration. For a full list of all decorations you can go here. A bit of scrolling and you'll find the start of the list of level 4 decorations (starts with Fire Res Jewel+). First and foremost let's go over drop rates starting with Feystone drop rates from Tempered investigations. All drop rate information was taken from here. I'm not going to be including the Feystone drop rates from hunting in the Guiding Lands since the data we currently have for it is rather incomplete. Threat Lvl Ancient Carved Sealed Threat 1 70% 30% - Threat 2 30% 60% 10% Threat 3 - 60% 40% Then we have the drop rates of decorations by rarity from the Feystones. The percentages below do not add up to 100% since there is a chance you can get the base game decorations from Master Rank Feystones. Feystone Rare 9 Rare 10 Rare 11 Rare 12 Ancient 33% 14% - Carved 21% 37% 8% - Sealed - 55% 20% 3% From that information I've put together a quick table on the best methods for farming each of the different rarities of decorations. More information on how to go about these methods will be provided below. Rarity Method 9 Completing T1/T2 investigations Melding Spiritvein Slogbones from GL T1 monsters Event Quest: "The Wrath of Thunder Descends" 10 Completing T2/T3 investigations Melding Spiritvein Solidbones from GL T2 monsters Event Quest: "The Wrath of Thunder Descends" 11 Completing T2/T3 investigations Melding Spiritvein Solidbones from GL T2 monsters Event Quest: "The Wrath of Thunder Descends" Event Quests: Supply Cache Tempered Elders 12 Completing T3 investigations Event Quest: "The Wrath of Thunder Descends" Event Quests: Supply Cache Tempered Elders In terms of actually being able to pursue these methods you're going to need to hit certain Master Rank (MR) requirements. If you've completed the main story then, once that MR cap has been removed, your MR will likely be high enough that you'll be able to farm T1/T2 investigations. You can either gather tracks/break parts in other hunter's T1/T2 quests online or from one of the T1/T2 optional quests (e.g. this one for T1, this one for T2). You'll also be able to eventually get more T1/T2 investigations in the Guiding Lands. Spiritvein Slogbones are available for farming once you leveled up a biome in the Guiding Lands to level 4 so that T1 monsters start spawning. Spiritvein Solidbones are available once you get to MR49, complete the assigned quest to remove your MR cap and then level up biomes to level 5 so that some of the T2 monsters start spawning. Once you get to MR69 and remove your MR cap again you'll have full access to all T2 monsters in the Guiding Lands. You can go here to find a full list of what monsters spawn where in the Guiding Lands. Spiritvein Solidbones can also be obtained by melding 6x Elder Spiritvein Bones obtained by hunting T3 Elders in the Guiding Lands (more below). T3 investigations are not available until you've reached MR99 and, once again, removed your MR cap via the assigned quest that you get from reaching that MR level. From there you can gather tracks/break parts in other hunter's T3 quests online, in a Guiding Lands biome that you've leveled up to level 7 or in one of the high MR optional quests (e.g. this one). Keep in mind if you're having trouble completing T3 investigations, and if you can complete two T2 investigations in the same amount of time it takes you to complete one T3 investigation you might be better off just sticking to T2 investigations.
