Greg Walker reveals how delays and real-life events have impacted Season 3. If it weren't for the COVID-19 pandemic, Titans Season 3 would have been premiered in 2020. But due to the closure and logistical issues, the season took almost two years to complete. And in an August 2021 interview, show host Greg Walker revealed that some of Season 3 are still in post-production. In this season, in terms of still working on post-production," said Collider. The world saw the main cultural changes while the Titans were in yawn. And Walker noticed that the moment allowed the writers to rethink some of the tones of the show. "The pause has allowed us to reflect on things that are thematic issues, it has revealed. " We had a pandemic, and then there was the murder of George Floyd. So there was a lot of thinking about how we look at the police in the show, the walker continued. I'm sorry. "Let's take a look at the institutions that are under control, increased voting and ways in which we can look at the Titans as a kind of force of change in that world, remain faithful to his vision. "HBO MAX" rolls with us because "do they like what the show is and have supported us? It's called the showrunner. "I think the biggest difference is the way you really feel the weight of advertising and promoting a great network, and the support of that with a real kind of enthusiasm to really launch the show, and be really behind. " And we feel the support. It is one of the most exciting episodes of the series to date. There are a lot of unpacking in this part of the soul saga, and given the heavy dialogue, viewers may not have noticed some of the finer details in episode 5. One of the most electrifying elements was Eren that it was the reversal reiner directly for the first time in years, ready to support his vote. But here's what else fans should pay attention to. [spoiler alert: This article spoiler for attack on Titan, season 4, episode 5th "Declaration of goods" is "Accident on Titan" World Premiere Event 124 Rachel Murray/ Getty Images for Funimation Entertainment Eren has memories from the past and from the past After devouring his father, Eren, like the other titanic shapes, he acquired memories from the people who first held his titanic ability. But back to the third season, when Grisha received for the first time the Titan attack from owl, and Owl knew the names of Mikasa and Armin, even if these two were not yet born. The Eren's plan, in particular the timing, could be the result of having these memories of things that have not yet happened. It could also explain the response of him reserved for all the things that are happening around him, as a meeting with his traumatized grandfather (who certainly remembers after having seen him in the memories of his father). Although she stayed out of service for a while, it's very likely that Annie is still alive, and even more likely to her her appear her appeared later this season. Since attack on Titan is very demanding regarding the details of each episode and rarely kills important characters out of the screen without a big gain later, as with Marco's death, it's a safe bet. Don't surprise you too if we'll see Annie back from her crystal nap at the end of the season. Azumenbit clan seems likely that foreigners are allied with the islanders of Paradis at some point during the temporal jump, in particular nursely than Miss Kumiko. From the initial aspect of her in the previous episode, Miss Kumiko of the Azumenbit clan has distinguished itself as one of the most kind people out of the walls. While many other world leaders have despised the Elders of Paradis Island, Kumiko protected Udo after he had poured her wine on Kimono. She knew what success if he didn't. In this episode, he decides to leave with his two partners PRIMA of Willy Willyt gives its great speech to world leaders, which is terribly suspected given the weight of the occasion and how far you traveled. He would also mean to explain how Eren and the crew were able to infiltrate without problems in this nation without having the knowledge of how to build or even drive large boats or planes when they were inside the walls for so much time. The 104th Squad226: a C infiltration as we have learned from this episode and the previous one, Eren has manipulated the young Eldian hawk boy to conflict quietly letters to his companions. But who did exactly Eren? At the end of this season's episode 1, there is a small scene of Jean who buys a newspaper in Marley just as the credits rolled. It is not difficult to think that most of the ten remaining cadets have also infiltrated Marley, as well as Captain Levi, who has sworn to kill Zeke last season to avenge commander Erwin's last desire.
